DESCENDANTS
GIDEON PEACHEY
And
NANCY ZOOK PEACHEY

Gideon Peachey was a son of Jacob and Barbara (King) Peachey, and a grandson of Moses and Barbara (Yoder) Peachey. His great grandfather was Peter Bitcher, who came to America from Switzerland in the year 1767. His mother was a daughter of Pre. Christian King, son of Samuel Koenig, who came to America with his father Dec. 22, 1744 on the ship "Maseliffe Galley," sailing from Rotterdam and Dorchester-shire, England.

He was married to Nancy Zook, who was born on the farm now owned by Jesse Hartzler, one mile south of Allensville. She was a daughter of Jacob and Barbara (Yoder) Zook. Her mother was Esther (Mast) Zook, a daughter of Bishop Jacob Mast, who was born in Switzerland in 1738. He migrated to America, an orphan boy, in company with four sisters and a younger brother John. Sailing from Rotterdam in the ship "Brotherhood," they landed in Philadelphia Nov. 3, 1750 and settled in Berks County, Pa. After being attacked by the Indians in 1760, they moved to the Conestoga Valley. Esther was born in Berks County and after her marriage, moved to Kishacoquillas Valley.

Gideon Peachey and Nancy Zook were married in 1861 and started farming on the farm now owned by Joe I. Peachey, About five miles west of Belleville. Here their oldest son, Jacob, was born. After a severe illness, Grandmother lost her sense of taste and smell.

In a few years they moved to the farm now owned by Joseph G. Peachey. At this place Lydia, Jonas, Lizzie, Thomas and Gideon were born. Their home was furnished with the barest necessities. They traveled mostly by horseback.

Gideon was in ill health a long time after being kicked in the abdomen by a horse. He was bedfast most of the summer of 1875 and suffered intense pain, as sedatives were not given at that time to relieve pain and often he could be heard moaning and crying with pain a distance from the house.

The previous spring his cousin, John Peachey, grandfather of Emanuel Peachey, was ordained to the ministry. At Grandfather's request arrangements were made for a few friends to meet at the home during the week to have services which Grandfather greatly enjoyed.

Grandmother was greatly worried over Grandfather's condition realizing that he was gradually growing worse and she knew he never would get better. She felt she was unable to keep her home with six children, the oldest twelve years and the youngest seven months of age, without the aid of father. But one day she had a vision of some kind which changed her mind entirely. She never was able to explain what or how it came about, but her thoughts and attitude were completely changed and by the help of God she was more willing to submit to His will.

Grandfather passed away on the 8th of Sept. 1875, aged thirty-eight years. After repeated requests by a number of physicians, Grandmother finally consented to a post mortem, and an abscess was discovered.

Grandmother met with several misfortunes. Six weeks after her husband's death she fell and broke her leg; in February her baby Gideon died; the following October while boiling apple butter the bottom fell out of a crock and scalded her leg and foot.

Despite the many trials and problems, Grandmother was almost continually singing or humming a tune from the time she was out of bed until asleep at night. Her children were taught obedience and respect. A command was not repeated twice. If they failed to obey, the hickory rod was applied. No school lessons were allowed to be done on Sunday and on Saturday evening all newspapers were put away.

It was by her labor and thrift that she was able to keep her family together. She never had idle hands. Her home was always clean and spotless. She was given to hospitality and many people enjoyed her good cooking, especially the poor and widows regardless of religion, who often were entertained in her home several days at a time. During the revival services at Belleville in the winter she would send a team and sled to haul all neighbors who wanted to attend the meetings.

Grandmother enjoyed taking care of sick people. Many times she would be called to come to homes to help care for the sick. She remained until they recovered or until they died. When Mrs. McConnell had pneumonia, Grandmother was called to help care for her. After Mrs. McConnell's death and funeral, their wasn't anyone to stay and care of the two-year old, curly, red-haired little boy. Grandmother took the child, namely Wilse, along home until someone could be found to keep house for his father. No one could be secured, so he became a member of our family until he was grown.

In the year 1835 many of Grandmother's relatives and friends settled in Kansas. In the fall of the same year Jacob, wife and son Clideon moved West. The next spring Grandmother had sale and rented her farm. On March 2, 1836 two of her brothers, with a spring wagon, took the family, including Wilse, to the station at Lewistown. On the train they met relatives and friends from Lancaster County who were going to Kansas, too. Others joined the group in Ohio. On their arrival at Newton, Jake met them at the station. They rented a six-room house and stable six miles from Newton. They attended services at the Pennsylvania Church where most of the members were from Pennsylvania.

The first year was prosperous. The boys helped to build a railroad from Hesston to Wichita. Settlers traveled in immigrant wagons further West. In the Autumn they rented a one hundred eighty acre farm, purchasing four horses and a few cows. They had well water, and used dry buffalo chips for fuel. Buffalo and cattle were plentiful on the prairies. In January, Lydia was married to Dan Byler of Kansas. In the early Spring oats was sowed and watermelons planted. Sixty acres was put in wheat and sixty acres in corn.

The crops seemed very promising until mid-summer when hot winds and chinch bugs destroyed everything. After a few discouraging years, they were all glad to return to Big Valley.

At that time farming in the valley was quite different from the present time. Grain was cradled and hauled to Reedsville by horses. Wheat was the main crop and income small, prices being very low. Cream checks averaged six to eight dollars.

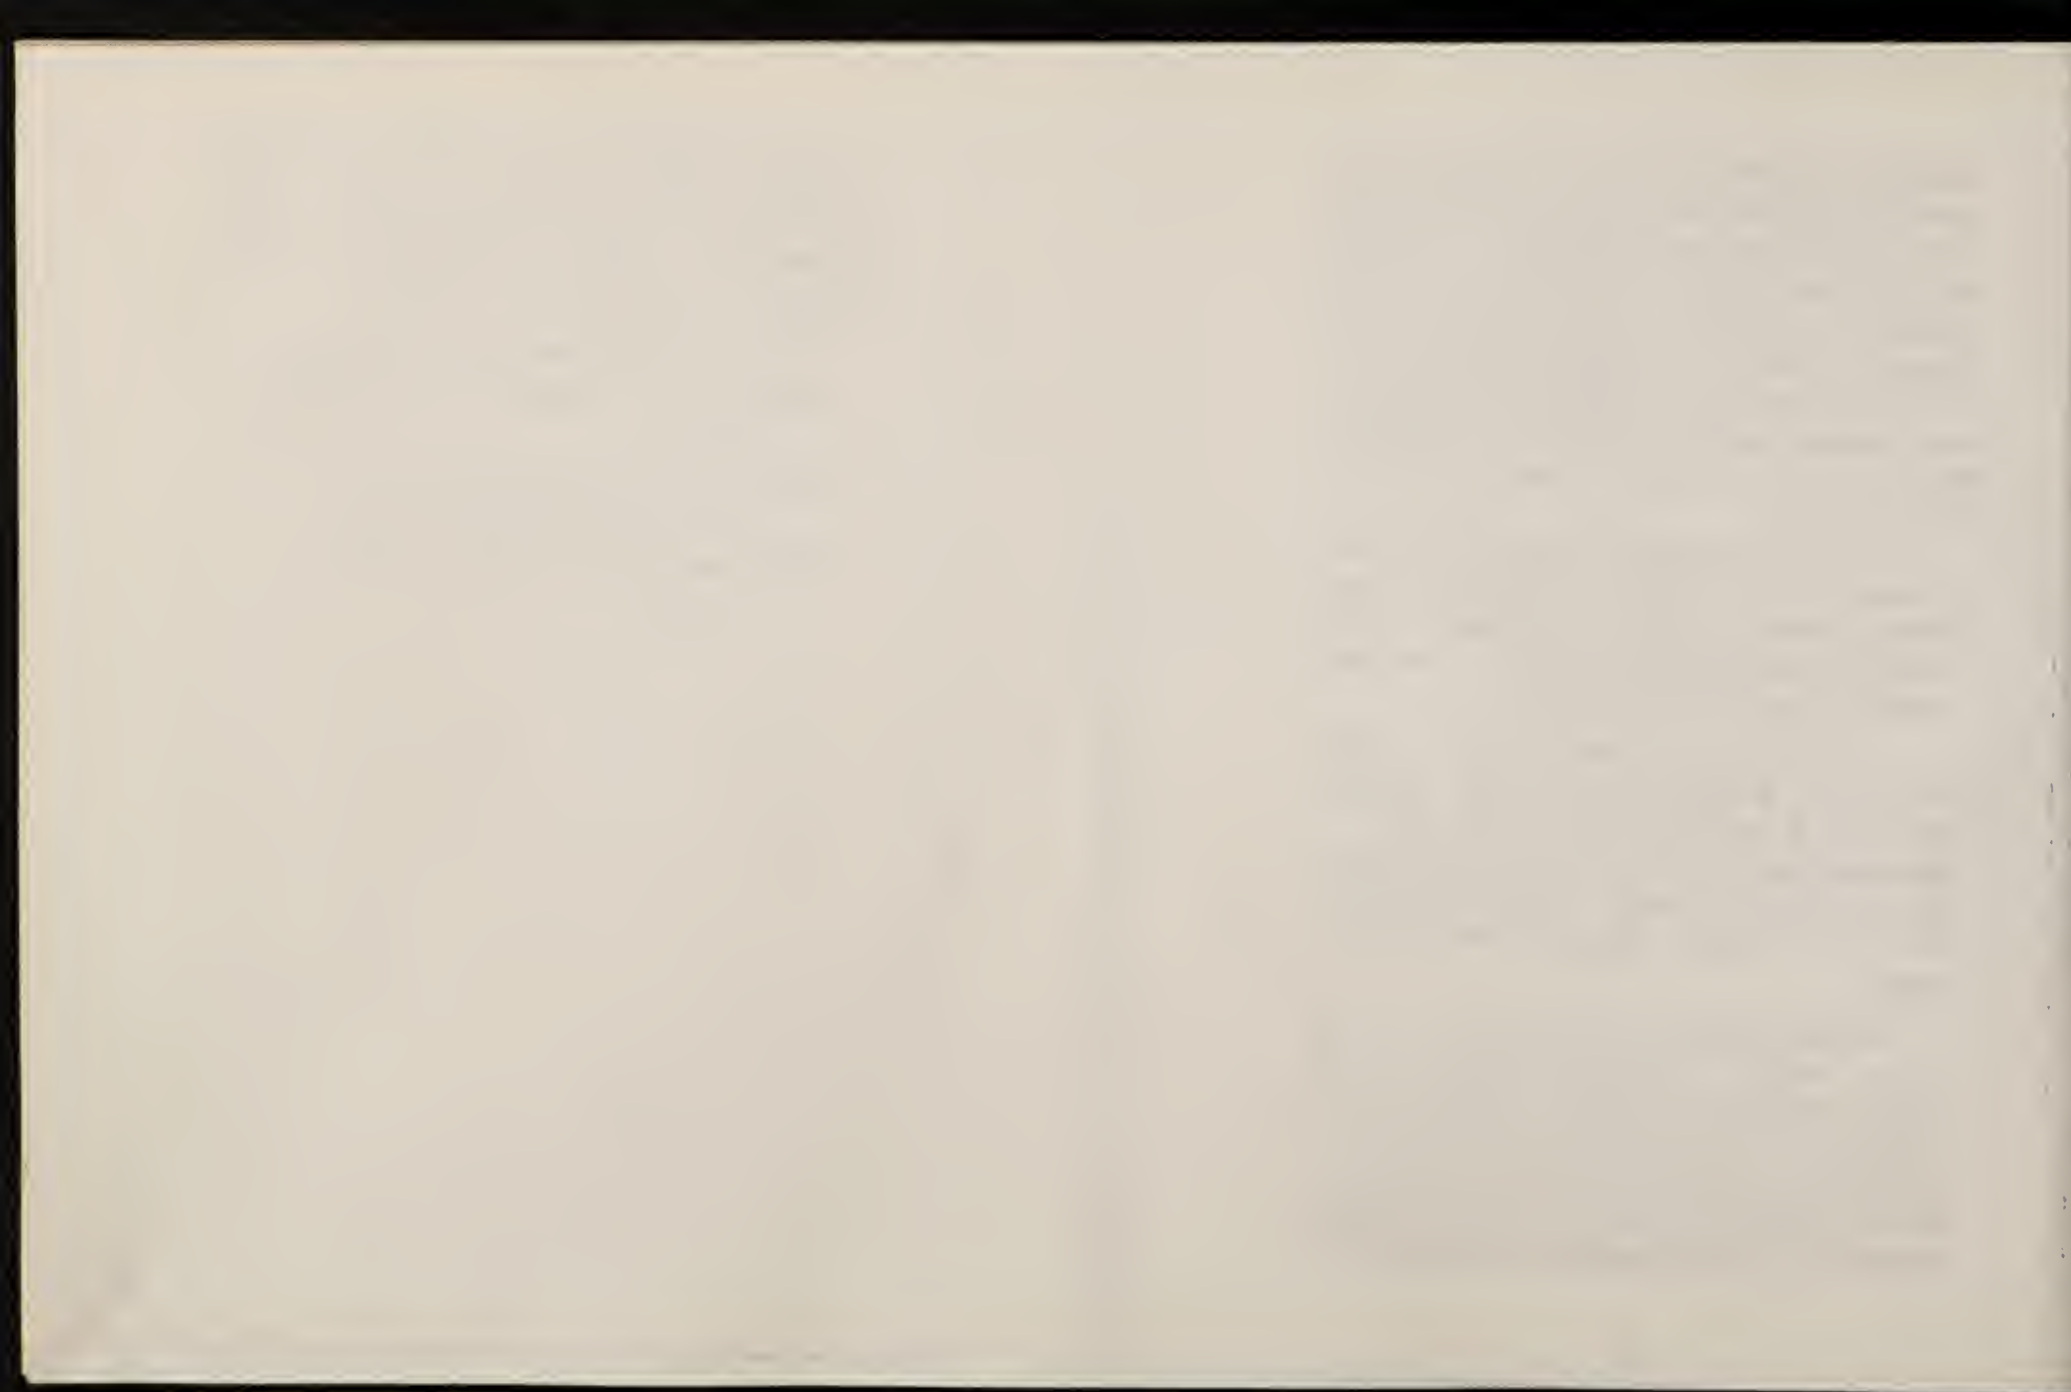

Several rooms were built to the farm house where Grandmother lived with Lizzie and husband, Menno Kauffman until he died. Then she and Lizzie moved to Middletown in 1902. She had been afflicted with dropsy before this time, but improved until 1907, then she took sick and was ill for almost a year. Having a desire to leave this world, she passed away Sept., 20, 1908. Her funeral sermon was preached by Jonas and Samuel Yoder from the text she chose, II Cor. 5.

Our has been a heritage that during Many difficulties and trials stood the test;

What will the next generation
have to say about us

When our bodies lie in the grave at rest.
